Superlative

The superlative form of an adjective is used to say that something is the supreme example of its kind. Superlative adjectives are formed in two ways: generally, short words add -est to the base form, e.g.

smallest, fastest, greatest

Often, the base form alters, e.g.

biggest, finest, easiest

Long words take most in front of them, e.g.

most beautiful, most informative

Superlatives are normally used with the:

the smallest, the most beautiful

Verb

A verb says what a person or thing does, and can describe:

an action, e.g. run, hit
an event, e.g. rain, happen
a state, e.g. be, have, seem, appear a change, e.g. become, grow

Verbs occur in different forms, usually in one or other of their tenses. The most common tenses are:

the simple present tense:	The boy walks down the road.
the continuous present tense:	The boy is walking down the road.
the simple past tense:	The boy walked down the road.
the continuous past tense:	The boy was walking down the road.
the perfect tense:	The boy has walked down the road.
the future tense:	The boy will walk down the road.

Each of these forms is a finite verb, which means that it is in a particular tense and that it changes according to the number and person of the subject, as in

I am	you walk
we are	he walks

An infinitive is the form of a verb that usually appears with to, e.g.
to wander, to look, to sleep.
